Ploughing Up Planks.

The I. B. & W. passenger going east at 9:40 this morning created quite a little excitemen along Washington street. Just west of town the train struck a cow and injured the pilot -not to mention the cow-so that it dropped a couple of inches nearer the rails. Everything went all right, however, until they struck the Center street crossing where the pilot caught on the end of a plank that was sticking up and knocked the end off the plank, dropping the pilot still lower. They attempted to come on to the depot but struck another plank where the tracks are fillsored just in front of Simpson's coal office on Washington street, and ripped up a half dozen planks before the train could be stopped. One of the planks smashed a guard off the pilot and another took a brace against a tie and went crushing through the spark-arrester. The debris was cleared very quickly, the engine side-tracked and the train sent on its way without delay. New Cases in Court.

In Common Pleas Court today J. K. Mower as attorney for Wm. Underwood, brought sail for $1,000 damages against police officers James Norton and Fred, E. Mast. Underwood alleges in his petition that was arrested on the 31st of last and violently handled and thrust into the county jail, where he was kept, without sufficient cause, for the space of two hours. The case was one of suspicion only and the man was released. He was found in possession of a lot of hams taken from Leuty's smoke-house, but his statement that the hams had been given to him proving co rect, he was allowed to go and the meat returned to him.

John Nicholas, by his attorney, J. K. Mower, files petition against Seth V. Black and others alleging that he owns a farm in Pike township adjoining that of defendants; through which runs a swale, or ravine. That defendants are constructing on their lands a levee which causes the water, inof passing off by the natural channel to dam up, flooding plaintiff's lands in part to his great damage in their use for growing crops etc., and proving injurious to health. He asks judgment against defendant for $300 and an injunction requiring removal of the enbankment.

Col. D. C. Putnam gave the information substantially as published in a report elsewhere of proceedings at last night's meeting of Mitchell Post.

Col. White was confident the G. A. R. and citizens would act together cordially and cheerfully in this matter. A public memorial service seemed to him very appropriate and the postponement of time for the tuneral night, for a test of the Mitchell hill water would be no objection to holding such sersupply. The report of the committee will be vice on the same day, inarmuch as those takking part would thereby have the more time to prepare.
